MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence

FROM : Edward W. Proctor
Deputy Director for Intelligence

SUBJECT : Soviet Defense Spending

1. Attached is a collection of background items on Soviet defense spending. The package is large, but several of the more bulky items are not meant to be read but only thumbed through for a general impression.

25X1A 2. The first item (Tab A) was prepared last fall for [] use when he was confronted with a number of questions regarding our work. It contains a summary statement with a number of supporting documents. I suggest that you read only the summary memorandum.

3. Each of the remaining items relate to specific topics of interest.

--Tab B -- June 1975, DCI Briefing of Senator Proxmire's Subcommittee of the JEC. Appropriate pages of the testimony are clipped as well as comments by General Graham--a not very well informed critic. Comments by Andrew Marshall, DoD Director of Net Assessment, are also clipped. Marshall is a much better informed consumer of our work, and, of course, approaches the subject with a DoD perspective.

--Tab C -- Newspaper articles published following the release of the JEC report, and our comments on the articles.
